Insincere Campaign Methods

"The political pot is sure blizz," remarked Si Hawkins upon his return from the corner store symposium Saturday night, "but as far as getting any real light on vital issues to us farmers is concerned, we seem to be gropin' round in the darkness quite as much as ever. Gettin' Teddy Roosevelt into the campaign doesn't seem to have done anything except to confuse. Roosevelt and his supporters are contending that they are the only outfit able to do anything at all to better conditions, while Taft and his managers are protesting against any swapping of horses in the middle of the stream, especially at this time when the country is enjoying an unprecedented wave of prosperity, while Wilson and his crowd are setting by with a handful of bricks and when there is any hull in the exchange of missiles between Roosevelt and Taft, they toss in a few to keep the scrapagoin', knowing that the more fightin' the republicans do, the better the chance of democratic success.

"Well, with all your argufyin', can't you get at any decision as to which is the best man," interjected Mrs. Si. "Bet we women could settle it in ten minutes."

"You could if it was a beauty show, but it ain't," retorted Si. "Now, in the first place Jake Beeheler argues that it won't until five or six months ago that Roosevelt climbed on the progressive republican wagon, and that previous to that time—when he wasn't huntin' animals in Africa—he acted openly with the reactionaries; and that when he did proclaim his so-called declaration of principles, he immediately forgot 'em and lured Taft into a campaign of personal abuse without an equal since the Civil war. He went on to say that Taft's failure was in not being a self-advertiser; that every time Roosevelt put over anything it got in all the newspapers, while Taft just went ahead with his presidential junkin' and didn't keep any high priced press agents on his payroll. Taft is prosecuting the trusts more than Teddy ever did, and some of 'em contended that what Teddy meant by good trusts and bad trusts, is that the good trusts are the ones that support Teddy and the bad trusts are those that don't. The Standard Oil is now belin' accused of contributing to one of Teddy's previous campaigns, and both sides are trying to prove their case by laying everything on people who are dead or out of the country."

"But what's all this got to do with the high cost of living, the tariff, and the regulating of the railroads and the other things that we are really interested in?" interrupted Mrs. Si.

"Nothin' at all," replied Si. "Everything of real consequence has been sidetracked for what may be termed minor personal issues. None of the political speakers are jumping on the railroads this year and it seems to me that the politicians have about reached the same conclusion that most of their constituents have—that the railroads are just regulated enough if not too much. There is grave danger of killing the goose that lays the golden eggs in this scrapagin' against the railroads. If it gets to a point where money won't invest in the railroads then the growth of the country will get a mighty sudden and disastrous check. So the politicians are finding other issues whenever they stop long enough from abusin' each other.

"If the politicians want to do something of real benefit let them pass a law 'grub-stakin' the farmer. Everybody else that has got some scheme to promote can get it financed, but the farmer that wants money to tide him over while he is clearing his land and gettin' his first crop harvested can't get it. Every other country but this has a line of cheap credit for the farmer."

COMMISSIONERS WILL EQUALIZE ALL ASSESSMENTS

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION IS IN SESSION TO ADJUST RATE OF TAXATION

Sitting as a board of equalization, the county commissioners convened this morning and will remain in session until the second Monday in October. The tax rolls have been completed and it will be the duty of the board to hear complaints and make the necessary adjustments in the taxing of property. The Tonopah tax roll will be the first to be taken up and this will be followed by Manhattan, Round Mountain and the other outside districts.

It is expected that there will be considerable adjusting to be made in the Tonopah rolls, owing to the two recent disastrous fires. At the time of the conflagrations the Tonopah roll was about completed and the property owners who suffered a loss still stand taxed for their original holdings. This, however, will be adjusted by the board when the matter is properly brought before their attention.

PLAYS WITH REVOLVER AND SHOOTS HIMSELF

Schuyler Morris, colored, accidentally shot himself at 1 o'clock this morning in the Colorado saloon. Dr. McCarthy dressed the wound, which was in the breast, but could not say whether it would be fatal until a careful examination could be made at the hospital. He was taken there. The bartender in the saloon says Morris and a girl had come in from a walk to Columbia and the girl took the pistol from her bag to put behind the bar. Morris reached for it and began turning the chamber and presently the pistol was discharged.—Tribune.

FATHER IS DEPOSED AS THE HEAD OF FAMILY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—Deposed as the head of his family, Chas. Hoffman occupies an unique position today. Hoffman was called to court upon charges brought by his wife, who exhibited great red welts on the back of her 5-year-old son, Ernest, swearing that Hoffman had beaten the boy with a length of garden hose.

The court decreed that for 60 days the father should be deprived of the right to correct his son and his other children, the mother temporarily to be installed as head of the family. Dire punishment was threatened in the event that the order is ignored.
